DANIELLE WEHLE, MD, MS
Board-Certified Dermatopathologist

Dr. Danielle Wehle is board certified in dermatopathology by the American Board of Dermatology and the American Board of Pathology, in addition to being board certified in anatomic pathology. She graduated from the University of Arizona in 2004 with her Medical Degree and Master of Science in Analytical Chemistry. She completed her residency in pathology in 2008 at Johns Hopkins University, where she won an award from the pathology department for her research. By 2009, Dr. Wehle had completed her dermatopathology fellowship at the renowned Ackerman Academy of Dermatopathology. Afterward, she went on to practice dermatopathology for more than twelve years.

In addition to full-time clinical work, Dr. Wehle also served as a clinical Assistant Professor of Dermatology at the Medical University of South Carolina. There, she was actively engaged in academic endeavors, which included teaching dermatology residents and fellows. Dr. Wehle currently holds medical licensure in 22 U.S. states, has participated in multiple professional publications and presentations, and is affiliated with various professional associations.

During her free time, Dr. Wehle enjoys hiking, rock climbing, and spending time with her husband and two boys.
